BENEFIT CONCERT MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MYSTIC

In a last effort to raise sufficient funds to provide for the relief of Capt. Willson, the Salvation Army worker, and his wife, a benefit concert will be given Monday evening at the Mystic theatre. Among those who will take part in the program will be Miss May Ross, the vivacious daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. M. Ross, and a graduate of the Emerson school of oratory in Boston, who will render one of her most expressive readings.

Miss Irene Archibald and George Smith will sing a duet and each will sing a solo. Miss Archibald, together with Mr. Smith, both have very fine voices, and it will be a treat to hear them in public.

A whistling solo by Miss Cora Pettit-John will be a feature of the program.

The admission will be fifteen cents and the proceeds will go to aid Capt. and Mrs. Willson.

REMARKABLE PIECE OF DELICATE MECHANISM

Col. W. H. Seewald, a watchmaker and jeweler of East Las Vegas, who is in his seventy-fourth year, has just finished a piece of work that required perfect eye-sight and steady nerves. He has taken one of the smallest sizes of cambric needles, broken it into five pieces, into each of which he has drilled lengthwise, turning a tap on the opposite end of each with a fine lathe so as to perfectly fit these holes, friction tight. When the pieces are put together the needle may be used for sewing.

He then drilled crosswise through each one of these pieces, the hole through the point of the needle being so small that it will receive nothing larger than a human hair. The other holes increase in size to the eye of the needle. The pieces are then tempered from white steel at the point to light yellow, dark yellow, purple and blue at the eye. Then a lady's hair is passed through each one of these cross holes, also through the eye of the needle. These joints fit so perfectly that they can scarcely be seen with the naked eye. Col. Seewald made his own drills for this delicate work.

A representation of the small pieces, but in greatly enlarged form, is enclosed to more plainly show how each piece is prepared and joined.

This delicate piece of mechanism is on exhibition in Col. Seewald's window at his place of business in the opera house block.
